

Looking for Mars

Cycle 19 Decodable Reader

It is dark.

There is no storm.

It is time to see Mars!

Pat and James start to go to the park. But it is not warm, so they get a scarf for Pat.

It is a short way to the park. But it is a long way to the stars!

"There are so many stars!" says James.

"There is the North Star!"
It is hard for Pat to see.

"Mars is so far. Look for the red. Just look very hard," says James.

It is still hard for Pat to see. She does not see Mars or the North Star.

James and Pat go to the yard in the park. "We can see more stars in the dark," says James.

Then Pat grabs his arm.
"Mars!" says Pat.
"I knew you could see it!"
says James.

"I go to bed with stars?" asks Pat. "No, that would not be safe. But we will do it again," says James with a smile.

"I did it!" Pat says.
"Bye, stars! Bye, Mars!"
says Pat.
