

Reading Together

Cycle 25 Decodable Reader

Pat tries to read. James helps. They always sit on a beanbag chair together.

They are reading about a girl named Daisy. Daisy sees shadows in the nighttime, and she is afraid.

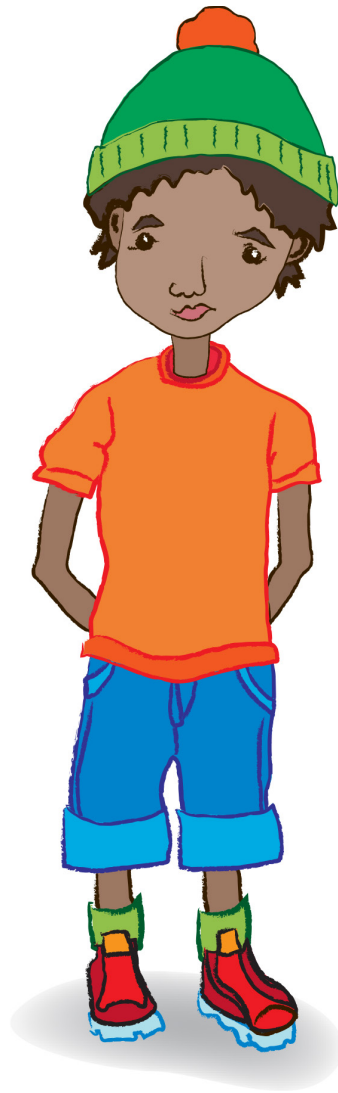

"Again!" says Pat. James repeats the story.

Then James gets a book for himself. He is reading about trains on the railroad.

Now Pat tries to read
a book about a greedy beaver.

The bell rings. It is Sam.
"We are reading," explains James.

"It is rainy today. We cannot go to the playground. I will read, too," replies Sam.

Sam is reading about a baseball player and his team. He is eager to read more.

"Reading is always a really good way to spend the day!" she says.

Sam, Pat, and James agree. Do you agree?
What do you like to read?
